FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Business in Wall street during the past week has been brisk, but without speculative excitement. The chief incidents of current interest were the Ross forgeries and the introduction of the Consolidation Loan bill in the The new State law taxing brokers' sales also attracted considerable comment, and provoked a good deal of honest indignation, the impost being generally regarded as equally unjust and unconstitutional. We Attorney General have agreed to suspend the execution who law pending a legal decision upon the question, and a test case is to be made and tried accordingly. If, the object to which it shall be applied, and it shall ot be sufficient to refer to any other law to fix such tax

The new loan bill provides for the issue of bonds to run nirty years and bear five per cent interest, the same to e called the "Consolidated debt of the United States," d to be exempted from all federal and State taxatio than it ready is; for, owing to the tack the three millions of our bonds being held abread, and a large amount beyond, by parties whose incomes are under six hundred dollars, which exemption it is proposed to increase to one thousand dollars, only out one-sixth of the aggregate of the debt it is esti-sted is reached by the income tax on the annual intercst. And the income tax is the only one to which government securities are at present subjected. It follows, therefore, that the loss consequent upon the entire exemption of the funding loan from taxation would be so hight as to bear no comparison to the amount gained by reducing the rate of interest to five per cent, moreover, it is urged that without the ents to the conversion of seven-thirty notes, which it will, it is understood, report it without material modifi-cation, and there is a probability of its being acted upon by the Senate during the next week or ten days. Had of thirty years, it would have been better, as the longer stock has to run the higher its market value is supposed vings of interest at the rate of thirty millions a year the establishment of a sinking fund for the reduction of the principal of the debt is timely, and all the more necessary because of the existing law on this subject ve no influence in curtailing the amount of green backs in circulation, as it is intended only for the fund-ing of securities other than these, the reduction of which is limited under an act of Congress fresh in the public mind. Neither will it exert any disturbing effect be necessary to its success, and whatever currency is rantee of an absence of monetary spasms, and will so far settle and define the aspect of financial affairs as to aspire confidence in values and a sense of security on ncy of prices being decidedly upward, but with here there a speculative lull under which they merely in steady or decline a fraction. The impression that rallway stocks are cheap is becoming more confirmed and there is a moderate and growing demand for invest ent.
